low reduction in yield

The 'reduction in yield' (RIY) is an indicator of the scale of the charges for an account and varies according to the size of the contribution and term of each investment. Essentially it shows how the charge will act as a drag on investment growth. For example, based on a monthly contribution of £1,000 over 15 years and assuming an investment performance of 9% per annum, the reduction in yield for the Managed Savings Account and Managed Pension Account is 1.62%. This is equivalent to a net return of 7.38%.

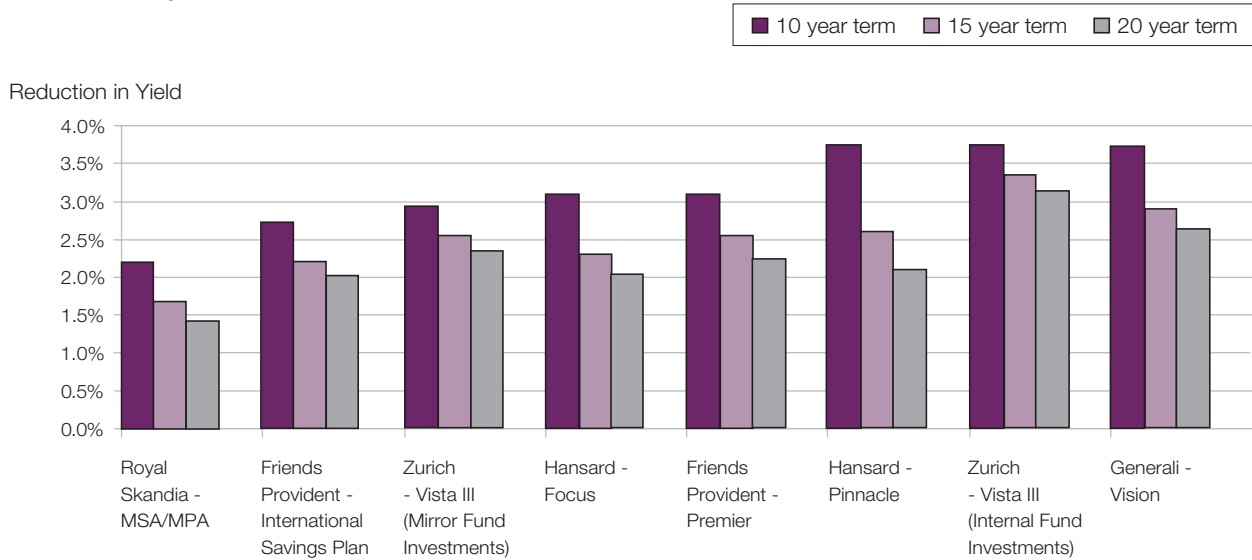

Monthly Contribution	RIY over 10 year term	RIY over 15 year term	RIY over 20 year term
£500	2.19%	1.69%	1.44%
£750	2.12%	1.64%	1.41%
£1,000	2.08%	1.62%	1.39%
